LOTH and Nationwide Children's Hospital has long-standing partnership and we were honored to be involved in their new build, the Livingston Ambulatory Center. The six-story facility houses ambulatory clinics; associated faculty offices and staff support space; central registration, reception and waiting areas; storage; ancillary support, MEP, IT; and related offices, service, and support spaces.

“ The panels were lowered in administrative areas, promoting collaboration in team spaces. Additionally, touchdown spaces are used as alternate places to work giving faculty choice and control over their environment, with an array of postures to choose from. ”

Team spaces on the clinic floors allow for collaboration amongst the department, with quick access to patients in dual sided exam rooms, while still providing privacy to complete tasks.

Faculty members were made part of the design process, allowing them to partake in user group meetings and voice their needs within the space.

A holistic solution now exists for this space that was successful in administrative, waiting, exam and public spaces throughout the facility that maintained and promoted the brand of Nationwide Children's Hospital.
